The Common Thread for the Cure Foundation, founded in 2000 by the late Suzann Burkhead-Bray and her brother, Scott Burkhead, in honor of their younger sister, Sandra Burkhead Campbell who died from breast cancer, supports individuals fighting breast cancer who are affiliated with the home furnishings and design industries by offering financial assistance through confidential grants. The grants are intended to enhance quality of life and can be used to meet any financial obligations, household needs and transportation to medical appointments.

“When we learned about how The Common Thread for the Cure Foundation assists those in our industry who are battling breast cancer we wanted to help too,” stated Jim Telleys, president of Spectra Home. “So many of us have friends and family members who have had to deal with breast cancer and the financial stress it causes. In addition to the Chair of Hope raffle we are also donating a portion of the proceeds from the Tamara Day by Spectra Home collection to the Foundation. We hope that our support will ease the burden that families are experiencing.”
